DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 17-27, drawn to a tool assembly comprising an approximation member with at least one cam surface, classified in class 227, subclass 175.2.
- II. Claims 28-32, drawn to a surgical device including a dynamic clamping, classified in class 227, subclass 175.3.
- III. Claims 33-36, drawn to a surgical device including at least one cam surface and a dynamic clamping member, classified in class 227, subclass 176.1.

The inventions are independent or distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I and II are related as subcombination and combination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination for patentability such as ~~does not require~~ cam surfaces and followers. The subcombination has separate utility such as effecting movement of the first and second jaws.

Inventions III and I are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as it does not require the specifics of a body portion, an articulation joint, and a disposable loading unit.

The subcombination has separate utility such as having at least one cam surface being configured to approximate distal ends of a first and second jaws prior to approximation of the proximal ends of the first and second jaws.

Inventions III and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as it does not require the specifics of a firing actuator including a flexible band. The subcombination has separate utility such as a tool assembly being pivotable in relation to a body portion from a position aligned with a longitudinal axis of the body portion to a position oriented at an angle to a longitudinal axis of the body portion.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
